Copyright Issues in Digital Ministry

This article is made possible through the church's continuing educational fund for your pastor and the help and support from Ivy Basinger, our church administrative assistant.

Copyright issues are now part of the weekly preparation for our worship services and other church sponsored activities. At present your pastor and the church administrative assistant have a general knowledge about copyright issues. However, training needs to take place making it a team effort with a larger group of people aware of copyright infringement issues. Failure to be knowledgeable about copyright issues will not prevent the church from being fined.

To help the church manage our use of copyrighted and non-copyrighted material during our worship service only, we subscribe to an organization called CCLI. CCLI makes copyright easy. With a Church Copyright License, we are covered for the copying activities listed below:

1. Storing Lyrics
Enter and store song lyrics on any computer for visual projection to assist congregational singing
2. Printing Songs
Print songs, hymns and lyrics in bulletins or programs for congregational singing

3. Recording Services
Record and capture your worship services (audio and video), provided you only are recording live music

If we were to broadcast a movie or video segment during worship, we would need additional copyrighted permission.

As the choir prepares for our Christmas and Easter Cantatas there are several ways to deal with copyrighted material. You may purchase a song book and CD for all choir members or you may purchase a Rehearsal License. A Rehearsal License provides for the following:

1. Permitted Activities
 - Stream (digitally transmit, retransmit, distribute and playback) Recordings in audio and/or video form
 - Download (digitally distribute) Recordings such that the audio part can be captured, saved and stored on a personal computer or similar data device for play back
 - Make physical copies of recordings and distribute them on a CD, flash drive or similar device

2. Activities Not Permitted

This License has certain important and necessary limitations and you may not assign or transfer any rights under your License to any other church or group:

Charge a fee or receive compensation for any of the Permitted Activities

Record your own version of a song in a recording for distribution to your church worship leaders, musicians, vocalists or any other person

Retain copies of recordings for personal use as they are intended only to be used as temporary audio reference copies for learning and rehearsing songs

What has been mentioned above will help our church with having a greater awareness of basic copyright issues as it relates to our worship services. A point of interest, both the sermon and the order of worship because they are produced as part of the pastor's job belong to the Paoli United Methodist church. Any original graphics designed by our church administrative assistant are also owned by the church for the same reason as the pastor's sermons.

One of the best websites to check out for other copyright topics is www.copyright.cornell.edu.

We wish to thank Bob Cromwell for his assistance and support with the church website!
